

CO-Camping

The Camping Town, with its tree-houses “to sleep” and its studio “to create”, is a place dedicated to hosting and creation. The five individual three-houses, nested in the common space, reconcile the outside and the inside, at the same time they allow to live intimacy in a shared place. Utopic, primitive and futuristic, this structure hosts at democratic prices individuals in project.

The Camping Town aims to save a space for self-collecting & personal process at the same time that it allows transparency & exchanges with the collective environment. The Co-Camping is a place for experimenting and sharing (body)-knowledge. Living & working together is the frame for interactions & connections, out of the traditional way of “teaching” & “learning”.

We want to encourage the performance as a living-interaction and a crossing-point between artists & non-artists, amateurs & professionals, nature & culture, public & private spheres. Structures and guidelines are generated to make possible a fruitful collective and individual journey. We are aiming to support work in the areas of : Performance & multidisciplinary art / Land Art, Urban ecology & Social Sculpture / Community Living & Art therapy / Contemporary & traditional dances / Contact Improvisation and Somatic Technics / Sound installations & Life music.

Spaces

- The Tree-houses space is furnished and equipped, with WIFI. Each one has his / her own private tree-house (one bed size + possibility of a small desk). In Commune : living-room, kitchen, bathroom, toilets (2), shower + 2 external yards + space for bikes.
- The Studio (6/10m wood-floor + bar & with kitchen + 2 toilets & shower) and The White Basement can be used for personal work, researches or warming up. It is also open for collective researches and invitation to guests, under certain conditions.
- Giving classes in the Studio or in the White Basement or making any activity generating money is not included in the Co-Camping, but you can rent these spaces on the general conditions.

How does it work ?

- The Co-Camping has almost no staff, and will probably never have in order to stay cheap. It has also for the moment no subsidies. We are running the space with 2 persons : the founder of the Camping Town, Anne Dolorès Marcéllis, and the Resident-Volunteer. Please, co-build the place !
- We ask you to be self-responsible for all domestic concerns : cleaning and ordering the space. Be conscious of energetic cost and never forget to switch off light and heating before to leave (wall indications will remind you this).
 - The space is dedicated for artists or non-artists who are engaged in a process (no friends, no relatives, no pets). If we are a “social place”, we don’t want to loose our perspective. We ask you to keep the destination of the space (creation & experimentation) & be aware not to disturb the other residents.
 - Silent between 9h45pm and 9h15 am is desirable for the good sleep of residents.
 - The relation to neighbours is fragile. A nice and positive relation is necessary. We ask above all to respect the quietness of the environment especially in the outside space (yard). If you plane events that may bring inconveniences, please, inform us in advance.
 - We are open to arty interventions in the Camping Town but only in concertation beforehand.
 - Visits of the space and “Check-in” are planed with the Resident Volunteer. If you can not be there, mandate a friend to receive your key. At departure, the key will be returned in the ad hoc mail-box.
 - Because the keys are expensive and their lost a big problem (for security reasons), we ask a CAUTION of 100 euros that is given in CASH the day of the arrival or transferred on the bank account of the Camping Town. This caution will be refunded by bank transfer at latest one week after departure.
- Food at the Camping is on your own responsibility, but residents are free to organise the cooking together.
 - Bring your sheets and towel.
